

Question 31 · Unit 2 · 8 Marks

State any two HRD subsystems.

Answer

An HRD system comprises several subsystems. Two are stated first; others complete an 8-mark theoretical discussion.

1. Subsystem 1 – Performance appraisal: Developmental review of results and behaviours to guide improvement.
2. Subsystem 2 – Training: Planned learning to build job-related and future competencies.
3. Potential appraisal: Judging future capability for higher roles.
4. Career planning: Mapping growth paths for individual and organisation.
5. Feedback and counselling: Dialogue that produces insight and change.
6. Organisation development: Interventions for teams, culture and structure.
7. HRD climate mechanisms: Surveys, communication and trust-building practices.
8. Interrelation: Naming two is not enough for practice—they must exchange data and share a developmental philosophy.

Conclusion. Any two subsystems may be stated; theoretically they exist as parts of one HRD system, not as standalone activities.